Explanatory Notes

Title I, Public Law 480: Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954. Sales are financed pursuant to formal government-to-government agreements with friendly countries. Actual sales are made from commercial stocks through private U.S. exporters. The Commodity Credit Corporation finances the dollar payment to exporters and the importing country deposits the dollar equivalent in its currency to the United States account.

Title II, Public Law 480: These exports consist of government-to-government donations of Commodity Corporation-owned commodities for emergency famine relief and work relief by the recipient government. No payment is required.

Barter, Title III, Public Law 480: Barter contracts with private U.S. firms are entered into by the Commodity Credit Corporation and provide for exchange of Commodity Credit Corporation-owned agricultural commodities for strategic materials or other materials used in U.S. foreign aid programs.

AID (Section 402, Public Law 480, as amended): These exports are paid for with the currency of the recipient country under varying terms and conditions. However, in contrast to currencies accruing under Title I of P.L. 480, these currencies are used almost entirely for economic development and technical assistance purposes administered by the Agency for International Development.

Section 416 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 and Title III, Public Law 480: These exports are made up of donations to the needy of foreign countries through private U.S. relief and charity agencies. Commodities donated, excluding processed products, come primarily from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks.

Title IV, Public Law 480: Agreements are entered into with governments of friendly countries for delivery of U.S. surplus agricultural commodities over periods up to 10 years. Dollar payments with interest are required in approximately equal annual amounts. Exports of wheat and flour under Title IV occurred during 1961-62. Credit periods of up to 20 years are authorized.

Dollar Sales: "Others" (cash) exports consist of total exports less the total of shipments made under government programs each year. This column shows the amount not financed by government programs and therefore is the quantity exported for "cash", or "dollars". Dollar sales are made without need for assistance other than the payment-in-kind program, which is designed to bridge the gap, if any, between domestic and world prices. Coarse grains did not receive payment-in-kind subsidies during most of the 1961-62 period. Wheat and flour exports did receive such subsidies throughout the year. However, there were instances of limited wheat export sales made at domestic prices.

Reports of exports are obtained from the Bureau of the Census, which provide the breakdown of total shipments to each country. Export data showing shipments under various government programs were obtained from the respective agencies responsible for their administration. Minor adjustments were necessary in exports to several countries to conform program data reported by administrative agencies to actual exports reported by the Bureau of the Census. Data are expressed in thousand of metric tons for wheat and coarse grains and in metric tons for rice. All data were compiled on the basis of the U.S. fiscal year (July 1-June 30).
